GENERAL MAHONE.

As this distinguished Virginian is just now occupying a large portion of the public thought of the people of the United States, by reason of his being regarded as the "balance of power" in the next Senate, the following clever pen portrait of him taken from a Washington City journal, will be read with interest: "General Mahone, of Virgina, or 'Mahone, Virginia,' as he registers himself at hotels, is a very small man. He will probably sink the beam at say ninety odd pounds and in height measures 5 feet 6 inches. The biggest thing about him is his hat. It is a slouch and worn in typical Southern style. His hair, iron gray, is worn rather long, but does not hang way down over the neck. He has a beard and mustache, also iron gray. These hirsutes, while not deserving to be called 'straggling,' are not thick in growth. His right hand is constantly feeling around his beard while he talks. He stands straight and dresses well. He wears black broadcloth or a black coat and gray pants. His vest is unbottoned all the way down to the last two holes. This shows a length of perfectly white linen. The collar is equally white, but not stiff, and is surrounded by a narrow black tie carelessly knotted in front. Around his neck is hung a long gold chain which winds in and out the button holes of the vest and finally disappears in the watch-pocket. Then there are his feet. They are very small. They are perhaps the narrowest belonging to any man in this country. They would drive a Chicago girl mad with envy. General Mahone is evidently rather proud of his feet. They are encased in small calf skin shoes, with low quarters. He wears cardinal red stockings, and when he sits and talks with you one foot goes to the other knee, and the leg of the pantaloons being drawn up by this operation you get a good idea of that upon which he stands. He is a ready talker and has the Southern accent pretty strongly marked. His voice is weak, that organ being comparatively as small as his feet, but is rather musical. It is evident that he is a thinker and is a pretty big man for such a small body. He will be the Alex. Stephens of the Senate."

SOLID SOUTH.

The best answer the Solid South can make to the gross libels that have won for the Republican party a fresh lease of power will be by devotion to its material interests; a strict maintenance of the credit of its municipalities and States; the rapid settlement of vacant lands; the extension of its railroad system and enlargement of its public school system.—[Memphis Appeal (Dem.)

Brigadier General Jacob Zelin, Commandant of the Marine Corps, who died in Washington, on Friday last, after a long illness, was First Lieutenant of Marines in the Pacific Squadron in 1846-7; participated in the conquest of California; was commissioned Captain September 14, 1847, and brevetted a Major the same year for gallantry in action. He is remembered by old Californians for active service with Stockton, with whom he arrived in California in the frigate Congress, and participated in the battles near Los Angeles.

A late Washington dispatch says: Secretary Evarts is expected to return from New York on Monday. During his absence the State Department declines to make public the text of the new Chinese treaty, which has been concluded. It is understood, however, that Secretary Evarts regards the provisions of the treaty as highly satisfactory, and as covering the whole subject of Chinese immigration into this country.

It is estimated that about 9,000 miles of new road are now under contract, and it is thought by men in a position to know, that more miles of railroad will be built during 1881 in the United States than during any year before.

Bret Harte is seriously ill. We have for a long time been afraid that Mr. Harte's excessive devotion to his consular duties would be too much for him.

Says the Stock Report: We see that Miss Bernhardt's audience in New York last night was "brilliant and critical." Ominous words! The telegram says nothing about the number present. When we read in a San Francisco paper that the audience at Legpad's benefit last night was "fashionable and appreciative" we feel sorry for the poor beneficiary.

PILGRIMS' PROGRESS,

Or the Turns, Trials and Tribulations of the Holland Exploring Expedition.

EDITOR STANDARD-NEWS:—"Thus far into the bowels of the land have we journeyed without impediment."

Verily your correspondent has fallen among the Philistines—Philistines who number in their ranks a most formidable corps of howling and uncongenial infants; Philistines whose standard is forward ignorance, and whose motto is uncleanliness. Let us review the outfit: Holland (who by the way is not one of the tribe aforementioned) it is almost needless to describe—it is the same Pioche, Bodie, California Pat. Holland, plus a few alterations in attire. A patent stage-robber cap adorns his massive head, while the collar of his overcoat, assisted by a downey scarf, protects a throat that knows full well the exhilerating worth of Bodie soda. His faultless feet are encased in boots of the latest fashion and a pair of government pants but poorly conceals the graceful symetry of his powerful limbs. He is a bird—a bird entirely.

Elster needs but a word, there has been no change in him save a quiet smile that shows him to be wrapt in the sublime thoughts of his vast responsibility.

Milliken! I find myself at a loss to describe Milliken. He is our purveyor, our eyes turn eagerly upon him, and we love him. To him are we indebted for our dainty meals, to him do we look for our camp fire amusement and (in our eyes at least) he is beautiul. He soars with Holland—he is another "bird."

Thorndike, well he's my pard. I might expatiate on his insipient beard and rugged overalls, but I won't, Suffice it to say he looks "tough."

Now for the Philistines: Heading the list is John Hayseed Bowman. Biblical investigations have bowed his back, and Lord only knows what has rusted the springs in his knees. A thin growth of stubble, cut off square at the lips, covers the lower portion of his angular features, and it is a profound problem to find his eyes. He is no "bird."

Then comes our; "family" this consists of one husband, in "biled shirt" and standing collar, two ravishingly beautiful wives, whose Beatrician feet scorn those plebian articles—stockings, and eight (there or thereabouts) bawling youngsters. Add to this three teamsters, and for their description find some other teamster.

About 7:30 A. M. on the 12th inst., our sixteen mules braced to the work and off we started on our pilgrimage. The air was frosty and biting, and as our luck would have it there was no warming and nutritious element around to brace up the pilgrims. Holland had not started with us. The proverbial rocky road to Dublin isn't a circumstance to the one we traveled. It was a case of thump, bump and jerk if we rode, and slip, stumble and cuss if we walked. More than this we were freezing. Towards evening, however, we pulled up at the Goat Ranch and began preparations for supper. You, no doubt, at sometime during your life have dropped some water among a lot of oats, and watched them spread out over the ground in wild confusion; well, just so did those children branch out from their parent stems. If a man went to chop down some sagebrush he was more than apt to brain a future president; if he rushed off to relieve the coffee pot from its horizontal position the chances were ten to one of his trampling down some precocious offspring. If any hot water was spilled it struck a baby, and more than once some one of the little darlings had to be rescued from the camp kettle or the frying pan.

How we cooked that meal without roasting something human must ever remain a mystery. But we did, and undergoing the delightful sensation of toasting on one side and freezing on the other, we ate it.

Hardly had we quaffed the last draught of cold and muddy coffee when a thrilling war whoop startled us from our elysian happiness and announced the arrival of Commander Elster, Major-General Pat. Holland and Col. Milliken. How we welcomed them! how we "froze" to that subtile liquid that they not only brought in them, but with them! And how they regaled us with graphic accounts of the joy and delight the citizens evinced upon their exit from Bodie. How vividly did Holland portray the universal hilarity, the harmonious strains of silver tongued music, the immense concourse of exhilerated inhabitants, and his final separation from his best and dearest friends. It was grand, and at the same time it was pathetic. Ere he had finished those hardy teamsters could be seen brushing away the silent tears that trickled down their brawny cheeks—the sage brush smoke may have assisted Pat. but at any rate those teamsters wept. As soon as our emotions were somewhat allayed, thoughts of repose came upon us. It was then that Holland's chivalry declared stself. Not forty yards from where we sat was a house, clustering around his benevolent knees was the phalanx of infants, shivering and snuffing in the cold. The idea suggested itself at once that these little pets should be enioying the comforts of that hearth.

Execution rapidly followed. Milliken was dispatched to interview the owner. A few moments of suspense, and he returned bearing the intelligence that the house was filled with a demented crew of Italians, who would listen to none of his entreaties. This fired the General to action, he hastily planned an an attack on the ramparts, and I volunteered my services as his batallion. "Why, damn it," says he, "I'll make 'em understand, I speak three languages myself—English, American and Texas—and if the two first fail I'll employ the latter," and off we started. Inside we found all things as reported, alien stupidity staring at us from all corners. "Who owns this domicile?" mildly began the General. No answer. "Who owns this house?" one octave higher. Continued silence. "Where the h—l is the landlord?" in high C. That fetched him, and my heart bled in sympathy as I saw Holland approach the fellow and open fire with an appeal to his charity. "Would you have those little things dying at your door? Would you call down upon yourself the curse of Jove by your disgraceful barbarity? Act like a man, prove yourself the good samaritan and"—and here, thank Heaven, the Italian stopped him by signifying his willingness to undergo anything rather than Holland. Back to camp we went in triumph. The darlings and their mamas were provided for, so spreading our icy blankets we rolled chatteringly into the arms of intermittant repose.

P. S.—I forgot to tally the drinks during all this, but put them down at 150 for the crowd. Yours,
INGOLDSBY.

Some malicious person tied a rock to the tail of the jackass of the waste dump last Saturday night. In consequence there was no bray Sunday morning. To-day the animal got rid of the rock, and to-morrow morning a new set of jokes (clipped from Eastern papers) will appear in the waste dump.

Struck It.

Larry Hoge, one of the early prospectors of Bodie, has been out prospecting at Mill Creek for the past ten days, and has discovered a very rich mine in that district. Five feet below the surface a good sized body of high grade ore was struck, and men are now engaged in taking out ore for reduction. Larry deserves his good luck, and his many friends will join us in the hope that he may realize a million from his new find.

SPRING WATER.

1 CHALLENGE COMPARISON

TO FURNISH

PURE, LIVE, SPRING WATER.

FLOWING IN A CONSTANT STREAM from its fountain high up in the mountains. No alkali or foreign elements, but pure spring water, perfectly soft, and free from all impurities. While I do not desire to say one word to the detriment of any water company in Bodie, a just regard for the health and sanitary condition of my neighbors, friends and the public, demand that I should inform them of the superior quality of the Granite Spring Water. This spring flows from a granite formation, indictive of the perfectly pure character of the water. Analysis shows it to be perfectly free from all deleterous mineral matter, and as compared with the springs of any water company in Bodie, stands as the purest crystal to an alkali flat spring. The waters of which are hard, crack the skin and are useless for household purposes. Standing a few days generates disease and causes death. Which do you prefer? Take your choice. Granite Spring Water delivered in quantities to suit at the lowest rates. T. J. BRODEGAN, Jr.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THANKSGIVING

PROCLAMATION!

IMMEMORIAL CUSTOM HAS ENgraven upon the hearts of our people a grateful acknowledgement to Almighty God for the manifold mercies he has bestowed uponus as a nation.

The settlement of these United States was founded on the everlasting principle of civil and religious liberty; its teachings have made us among the nations of the earth honored and respected.

Thanksgiving Day is the offspring of those principles, hallowed by the dearest and most sacred memories.

It has pleased the Father of us all to have dealt most kindly and generously to us; Government has been strengthened, the unity of our people cemented, prosperity has cheered our hearts, peace has bestowed plenty, and plenty has diffused happiness and comfort throughout the vast extent of our beloved country.

For these blessings let us be truely thankful; let each individual accord praise for these blessings as his belief may lead him; gather together around the family table; make these reunions the right spot of home love; forget not the poor and the unfortunate; let charity and mercy be the atiributes to mark this day as one set apart, to forget which is to remember nothing.

Now, therefore, in accordance with the proclamation of his Excellency, the President of the United States, I recommend that on Thursday, the 25th day of November next, the people of the State of California do assemble at their respective places of worship, and offer thanks to the Giver of all these great mercies, for the many blessings which His bountiful goodness has been pleased to bestow upon us.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the State of California to be affixed, at the city of Sacramento, California, this 10th day of November, A. D. 1880.

GEO. C. PERKINS, Governor.
